SEECT ON THE SPEAKERSHIP CONTEST.

the Candidates Will Be Questioned About the Policy They Will Pursue on This Question.

WASHINGTON, September 21.—[Special.]— The tone of Mills's reference to the free coin-The tone of Mills's reference to the free coin-age of silver, in his speech at Mansfield, O., is penerally regarded as confirmatory of the re-port that he and Mr. Cleveland, or Mr. Cleve-land's friends, have come to an agreement by which the Cleveland influence is to be exerted in favor of Mr. Mills's candidacy for the speak-

The Effort to Throttle Silver. There is no longer any difference of opinion mong the democrats on the tariff question, and antagonism to tariff reform does not enter nto the speakership contest, but Mr. Cleve and's friends want not only to give prominds want not only to give promise to that issue, but to force the silver on so far out of the way as not to have it appear as an issue in the national convention.

It is understood that the Cleveland folks will support Mr. Mills, with the idea of having hing but tariff talked off. Mr. Mills has en regarded as a free coinage man, but his sim to fame is through his tariff record, and it is as important to him as to Mr. Cleve-and to have that question kept to the front, hough be might not be hurt as Mr. Cleveland having silver under dis It is in his power, however, to assist Mr. Cleveland by maintaining tariff reform as the aly issue before the people, and it is believed hat that was his purpose in disparaging the soney question in his speech. It is regarded bold thing for a speakership candicasts in the next house is the very reverse of what it was in the last; more than two-thirds of the men who vote in the democratic caucus be free coinage men.

Free Silver as Well as Free Trade. They will all be "free trader," as the term used, but most of them will be for "free rade" and free silver. The other candidates will not be apt to make any point against Mr. will not be apt to make any point against Mr. Mills on account of his apparent purpose to bee silver in the background, for the reason that the question is liable to prove perplexing to them all. Every candidate, who has any standing in the contest, has friends among the anti-free coinage democrats, whose votes he wants in caucus, and therefore would prefer not to have the question sed. The members who are not candidates d who are advocates of free coinage, will be ry apt to assure themselves as to the course a candidate is disposed to follow as to silver before casting their votes for him for speaker As they all agree on the tariff, there is a posibility that the attitude of the candidates to-rard silver will he a leading question in the

The Candidates Must Talk. In spite of the dodgings of the democratic with a view of securing harmony in 1892 by greeing not to talk about those things they not all agree on, the silver question may addenly acquire more than ordinary promi-sence through silver men exacting pledges om speakership candidates. The democratic leaders, who are interested in the presidential matter only, are anxious to have the

The secretary of the treasury located the site for the new public building at Rome, Ga., by accepting the bid of Samuel Faulkhouser of the site offered at the corner of Fourth avenue and East First street. WASHINGTON GOSSIP. Customs Receipts-Dismissal of Alien Laborers, Etc. Washington, September 21.—A statement prepared at the treasury department shows that the receipts from customs at New York for the first wenty days of the present month were $6,531,757. The receipts for the corresponding period of 1890 were $9,371,395.

Superintendent Owen, of the bureau of immigration, was today informed that the New York Central Railroad Company had directed the dismissal of all its alien laborers. This means those laborers who work on the road and whose residence is in Canada. Agents of the treasury department have had considerable trouble in preventing violations of the alien contract labor law by Canadian laborers who work on railroads, crossing the boundary between the United States and Canada, and by Canadians who come to the United States and work by the day in shops, and then return home at night. Officers of the department are pleased at the action of the railroad company, and see in it a desire on their part to comply with the spirit of the law prohibiting the importation of laborers by contract. UNCLE SAM'S GUNBOATS.

Some of Them May Take a Trip to Chinese Waters. Chinese Waters.

Washington, September 21.—A week ago Secretary Tracy, after summening a number of American war vessels in Chinese waters, remarked: "If, however, American missions and American citizens in China are to rely upon gunboats for their protection, rather than upon the Chinese government, our fleet in those waters must be very largely increased." Since that atterance avants have so thaped themselves as to indicate the vision at seen by Secretary Tracy. While there is at present no formal alliance, yet the government of the United States has reached an understanding with the governments of Great Britain, France and Germany by the term of which, in the event of failure of the Chinese government to afford adequate guarantees for the protection of the lives, property and interests of citizens of these four nations, that duty is to be undertaken by the governments of the United States, Great Britain, Germany and France, acting jointly.

In case of riot or other disturbances, vessels of either of the four nations will afford refuge to the citizens of any of the other nations and will undertake to protect their consolates and other interests.

It is not known whather general protects are the government and the protect their consolates.

It is not known whether or not a combined It is not known whether or not a combined naval demonstration will be necessary to arouse the Chinese government to a realization of the justice of the demands of Europe and America that the property, rights and lives of their citizens be respected, and may be that the naval forces will confine their operations to a system of watchful maneuvers, that shall have in view the presence of one or more vessels at every port where an anti-foreign outbreak is threatened. But this will necessitate an addition to our own fleet, and if the Ranger can be repaired in season, she will be sent from San Francisco to join Admiral Belknap's squadron. Such other addition will be made as can be spared from other stations and these United States vessels, although mostly antiquated and of little service in an engagement with such modern naval vessels as are included in the English, French, German and even Chinese fleets, would be equally as valuable (and from their light draft perhaps more so) as more modern vessels, in quelling riot and operating in shallow rivers.

RAISED FROM ONE TO TEN.

A Skillful Piece of Work Received at th Treasury Department.
WASHINGTON, September 21.—Probably the most expert piece of note-raising ever at-tempted; has been received at the treasury department from Denver. Colo. It is in the form of a one-dollar certificate with Martha Washington head, raised to a ten-dollar national bank note. When the great difference in designs of the two notes is taken int consideration, the work of the note-raiser is remarkable, and cannot be detected without lose scrutiny. The vignette of Martha Wash close scrutiny. The vignette of Martha Washington on the face of the certificate has been so reduced in shade that it is not visible except on close inspection, and over that the picture of Benjamin Franklin has been painted.

All the heavy, dark background of the vignette has been reproduced a counter, in which are written the letters "Ten." On the right side of the face of the note the treasury number has been transformed into a die, bearing the figures "10." The geometrical lathe work on the right aide of the face of the note has been transformed into the figure of a woman resting on the back of an eagle soaring above the clouds. The words "one silver dollar" on the geometrical die in the center of the face have been cleverly changed to "ten dollars." On geometrical die in the center of the face have been cleverly changed to "ten dollars." On the back of the note the large figure I one either end has been removed, and by the will-ful use of chemicals and ink, the note-raiser has on the left produced an almost exact copy of the coat of arms of one of the western states, and on the right hand an esgle and flag in-closed in an oval, which appears on this part of every national bank note.

BISHOP TURNER ON AFRICA

He Says the Colored People Should Emigrate and Set Up for Themselves.

Boston, September 21,-Bishop Henry Mc Neil Turner spoke to a large congregation of colored people last night in the African Methedist Episcopal church, on Charles street, or his proposed trip to Africa, and in advocacy of the migration of 100,000 or 150,000 of the colored race to that continent. His observation, he said, had taught him that there was little hope for the colored race in this country; that the best thing a number of them could do was to go to some other country, set up a govern-ment of their own, and demonstrate that they had in them native ability to administer the affairs of state.

In Africa he saw such a country. It was rich in gold, silver, precious stones and min-erals of all descriptions, such as a people start-ing to govern themselves would need to make them strong and mighty. He solemnly be-America would finally be the instrument to redeem and Christianize Africa and plant on her soil one of the grandest governments the sun ever shone upon. A few weeks ago, in a conversation he had with President Harrison, the latter wondered why the colored people took so little interest in the subject. The bishop stated that in his talk with President Harrison on the subject he suggested an appropriation by congress to purchase a tract of land in Africa and the appointment of a commission of twelve, seven colored and five white, to carry on the negotiations.

COUNTY DELEGATES PROTEST

Against the Action of the State Committee and Convention.

NEW YORK, September 21.—Delegates of the county democracy organization to the state convention at Saratoga, held an adjourned meeting at Cooper Union tonight and adopted a protest against the action of the state commeeting at Cooper Union tonings and adopted a protest against the action of the state committee and state convention. In this protest, which will be presented to the county committee of the organization, the delegates say that they were the only representatives of the democratic party from this county elected in accordance with the Cassidy resolution of 1871, and that in depriving them of representation in the convention, the state committee acted arbitrarily and contrary to the resolution adopted by the state convention of 1884.

They also utter a "note of warning" that the result of the convention demonstrates that the democratic party of the state is "controlled by a combination of Tammany Hall and a canal ring, as it was prior to 1871," and warns democrats to remember the result of that combination, and "when the time comes" to unite with them, "to wrest the control of party machinery from those who in the end can bring it only disgrace and defeat."

THE PROGRESSIVE FARMER TALKS, And Calls for Young Men in Office Instea of Veterans.

RALEIGH, N. C., September 21.—[Special.]-L. L. Polk's paper, The Progressive Farmer, will tomorrow, in a leading editorial, say that the alliance is determined to put the old soldier candidates for office on the shelf, and to have young men rather than have old men who have lived on war history, and who have who have lived on war history, and who have put young men in the background. The editor declares that the alliance should take as candidates those but lately out of their cradles. The editorial also alleges that the bosses tried to induce Polk to become a candidate for governor, but that he declined. This latter statement is a surprising one.

Grant's Monument.

New York, September 21.—The executive committee of the Grant monument committee today accepted the recommendation of the building committee, stipulating that the work of completing the entire concrete foundation be pressed forward at once, thus changing the present plan in this matter, which was to complete about one-half this year, and then, when this was done, to have the temporary some raised complete from its present foundation and placed withinthe walls of the main building. Here it will remain until the temporary forms the permanent occupancy of the main building. Grant's Monume

Stables at the Dallas Fair Grounds Destroyed by Fire.

SEVERAL VALUABLE HORSES BURNE

In Their Stalls, Resisting All Efforts to Rescue Them.

THE SICKENING ODOR OF HORSE FLESH

Stablemen and Their Helpers Panio Stricken-The Terrorizing Screams of the Poor Animals.

DALLAS, Tex., September 21 .- [Special.] At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon a fire consu a half mile of stalls at the Dallas fair grou besides the two large private stables of H. B. Sanborn, of Houston, Tex.

The stables contained 260 stalls, and there were 200 horses entered. The stables were built of such combustible material that the flames swept them from the face of the earth in thirty minutes, fanned by a brisk wind.

The scene during the fire beggared description. Dozens of men and stable boys wer panic-stricken, and made feeble efforts to save the horses, harness and other track parapher-nalia, but the heat was so terrific that ther did little or no good. The flames roared like the billows of an angry sea, but above them could be heard the terrorizing bellowing of horses, accompanied by the sick-ening odor of roasting flesh. Ponderous Norman and Percheon stallions, from Sanborn's private stables, broke loose from their keep and their fastenings, and rushed upon each other with the fury of enraged lions, kicking and biting each other, and uttering piercing shrieks until they fell exhausted and wen roasted by the seething mass of burning tin

Mr. Sanborn lost twelve fine Percheon and Norman stallions, valued at thirty thousand to forty thousand dollars. The trotting horse Wilkes, valued at $5,000, was led out of his stall, but became unmanageable and plunged into the burning stall, from which he could not be rescued. The stables were valued a $6,000, and were partially covered by insurance. The amount of feed, harness, number of sulkies, etc., will reach $10,000.

A Postoffice Burned. Chartanooga, Tenn., September 21—[Special.]—At Hornville, a postoffice a short distance beyond the top of Mission Ridge, the storehouse and entire stock of goods of J. H. Varnell, was destroyed by fire at 9 o'clock last-night, as was the office and mail. The family detected the fire as they were returning from church, but could save nothing. Varnell thinks it was the work of an incendiary, as there has been neither fire nor light about the house for twenty-four hours. His loss is from $1,500 to $2,000. Insurance $800.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., September 21.—[Special.]—It was learned today that Saturday evening, when the fate of the penitentiary bill became known, the members of the miners' delegation waited upon Governor Buchanan and assured him that there was no criticism of his conduct in the affair; that they were aware he had done everything within his power to promote the legislation desired, and that no matter what should follow every miner in East Tennessee would go out of his way to support and protect him.

The governor replied, thanking his visitors for their good will and giving them kindly advice for their guidance as men of influence among the miners and their friends. He told them he regretted, as keenly as they, the failure of the legislature to enact a law, or laws, that would speedily relieve the situation, but, since it had not been done, it became his but, since it had not been done, it became his sworn duty to enforce the existing laws bear-ing specially upon them, and that he could and would not shirk the responsibility. He re-lated that the state had equipped him for power! ful action, should it become necessary, and that if the forces of Tennessee were insufficient, those of the nation were available Under these circumstances a conflict would mean only death and destruction to them and any allies who might be drawn into it. All this was mildly stated, but with a mean-ing the visitors understood and felt. They carefully refrained from any promises and guarantees, but the governor believes that if they can control the discontented element there will be no outbreak. A Rumor Current.

A report here today was to the effect that the trainmen on the Knoxville and Ohio road would strike against hauling coal mined by the convicts, thus precipitating the conflict. It it takes on no more serious form than this, the state will not be involved, and the lessess will have to handle the affair according to their own dictates.

Commissioner Ford will go to the Briceville district tomorrow night, and Superi Wade will follow in a day or two.

On September 9th the castaways were transferred to another Spanish vessel, bound for Yucatan, through the straits of Florida, and on the morning of Sunday, September 31st, they were set ashore on the barren beach, twenty miles from this city. They walked here and are now at the St. Johnshouse awaiting the arrival of money from Brooklyn, with which to take passage home.

Mr. Thornton's brother in Brooklyn supposed him and his sister-in-law dead, and he now fears that some imposter is trying to extort money from him. Both the castaways have been identified, however, and the money is expected in the morning. Both have stood their hardships remarkably well, but strange to say neither can remember the names of the vessels.

BEAN HAS SKIPPED OUT

And Has Taken with Him Money and Woman.

Anniston, Ala., September 21.—[Special.] W.C.Bean, agent of the Chattanooga Brewing Company, skipped out from here today, car-tying a good deal of money belonging to his company. Bean came to Anniston about the first of August to represent the Chattanooga Brewing Company. He made only one payment for the beer shipped him, and that amounted the same of th ounted to only about three hundred dollars. Two weeks ago he was discovered to be over one thousand dollars behind, and Mr. Wagoner was sent down to investigate. Bean put up a pretty talk and made excuses until Mr. Wagoner was influenced to grant him further time in which to make good his indebtedness. Yesterday both Wag Mr. Charles Buthman, officers of the company, were sent to look into the matter. Together with Bean, the two started around to collect this morning. Bean gave them the dodge, col-lected about two hundred and fifty dollars, and left on the south-bound Alabama Mineral train, with a woman of the town named Ells Johnson. The authorities at Calera were telegraphed to arrest Bean, which they did, ing. His shortage is about fifteen hundred dollars. and he will be brought back here this

HANGED TO A TREE. And the Father of the Victim Says the

MILWAUKEE, Wis., September 21.—A special to The Evening Wisconsin, from Darlington, Wis., says at noon today an infuriated mob took from the county jail Anton Sieboldt, who brutally murdered James Meighan, a neighbor, last Wednesday, and hanged him to a tree in the courthouse yard. Sieboldt was a desperate character, and his parents manifested little concern when informed of the lynching. The elder Sieboldt is reported as having said the action of the mob was probably just and right. The murder was co Robbers Take Nearly a Million Dollars . from a Bank.

AND LONDON POLICE ARE PUZZLED Watching Closely at the Wharves of Departing Ships.

ATTEMPT TO SUPPRESS THE FACTS. The Amount Stolen Said to Be Over

Million Dollars—Theory of the Po-lice About the Bobbery. LONDON. September 21 .- Another heavy bank robbery is reported today, but as every effort is being made to suppress the facts, no authoritative story can be told. So far as known, however, it is this:

A large parcel of bills, remitted from country banks, has been stolen from the London and Westminster bank, limited, which is an important institution, having fifteen or more branches in this city. The amount lost is variously stated from $750,000 to $1,150,000. The matter has become public through notes to the banks and police centers of the country, and through the espionage over departing vessels at all the ports of the United Kingdon The theory of the police is that no atte will be made to use the money in Great Brit ain, but that it will be taken abroad, most likely to the continent, where a greal deal of English money circulates.

A Former Bobbery Becalled.

The actual method of the robbery is, to the public, entirely conjectural, but the circum-stances recall the clever robbery last February of a clerk of the London branch of the Bank of Scotland, as he stood at a public counter of the National Provincial bank. The thiever obtained $60,000 by that haul and nothing has ever been heard of them or the money. Quite recently it was reported that the Bank of England had been robbed of £250,000, but that statement was denied by the officers.

IT WAS NOT ON THE BILLS. Riot at a Bull Fight at Marseilles Last

MARSHILLES, September 21.—A serious riot occurred in this city yesterday. A bull fight was in progress at the circus here, but the spectators became displeased with the performance of the toreadors, claiming they were not doing their best; that they were cowardly and simply making a weak pretence of fighting bulls. Finally matters became so warm that the spectators, not content with hooting and yelling at the bull fighters and bulls, arose the toreadors and toros out of it, tore down the seats, piled them in heaps and eventually set fire to the debris, threatening the destruc

At this stage of the proceedings a strong force of police came upon the scene, having been hastily summoned from all available posts. IT WAS UP: THEN IT WAS DOWN. Fluctuations in Futures on the New York

Exchange.

New York, September 21.—The Sun's cotton article says: Futures were very unsettled all day. January contracts ranged from eight points above to five points below, the market closing three to four points above the final figures of Saturday. The market does not open now till 11 o'clock on Monday morning, and operators on and off the floor of the cotton exchange had full time to digest the early reports and indications.
In the first place, there was a sharp recovery of 4 to 5-64d in the Liverpool market for futures. This was good for the market for futures. This was good for the bulls.

But the weather at the south was very good, and Manchester did not respond to the better Liverpool market. Bad for the bulls; but what was this about receipts at ports? Did you say early figures pointed to an excess over the phenomenal figures of last year; nothing shorter. Worse for the bulls. On first call January contracts sold at 8.70, but from this figure prices steadily gave way until just before the last call there were sales at 8.67 cents. Then a leading German house came to the front with sustaining orders, and brought in buyers to cover contracts, on which there was a rally to 8.65 cents. Spot cotton was dull, but about steady.

THE ALABAMA BOYS

Who Are on the Bolls of the Meel

Who Are on the Rolls of the Mechanica College.

AUBURN, Ala., September 21.—[Special.]The Agricultural and Mechanical college an Polytechnical school of Alabams at this placopened its fall session Wednesday with fastering prospects. More than a hundred pupi have already been entered as cadeta, and a plications have been received in advance for great many more, some of the application coming from regions never before patronizing this southern school, several, as I learn, bein from far away Kunsas and other states in the northwest. I learn also that there is some appearanced that the boarding house siread in operation here will be crowded to accommendate all the cadets expected. Perhaps were experienced and abis hotellist or keeper of boarding houses elsewhere would do well to move his or her business to this locality.

It appears that big schools in other states are determined to obtain all that is possible of Auburn's professional talent for teaching elsewhere. Professor J. S. Newman, for many years director of the experimental farm of this state and professor of agricultural science in the college here, has been called to a similar position in the new Clemann college of South Carolina, where he goes in January next, and Professor Bryant, in charge of the mechanical department of the Auburn college, has been elected professor of mechanics in the big Stanford university of California, and left here yeaterday for duties in his new field. Professor Bryant's place in the Auburn school has been filled by the appointment of Professor Wilmore, a recent fraduction this college. Colonel Newman's resignation has not yet been placed in the hands of the board of directors, and consequently his successor will not be appointed for some time yet. Colonel Newman has, however, signified his intention to accept the place at Clemson, and he is now there making arrangements preparatory to removal thither.

He needed a little money to return to New York. A draft of £200 Hamilton & Co. honored. For some time he was lost sight of. At last the Hamils succeeded in having him arrested in New

The grand jury was in session and a bill was found against Walter S. Beresford for cheating and swindling.

But another bill was found also, and reads on the superior court docket: "The State vs. Walter S. Beresford, larceny after trust."

When the young lord held such a high hand in Rome, coming so well recommended by friends of the Romans in New York, he met some of Georgia's belles.

His address was winning, his manners perfect, his passionate tenor voice alluring, and he was thought to be a high-toned gentleman from England. His recommendations showed that fact.

Talbotton, Ga., September 21.—[Special.]
Sheriff Richards, assisted by Deputy Sheriff Murphey, captured in this county today a negro desperado, George Mason, who, in February last, killed his wife in Terrell county, in this state. George refused to be arrested, and offered fight, but the sheriff was equal to the emergency, and brought him in, not, however, until he had shot him twice in the leg. Mason has made a clean breast of the whole affair. He says that he and his wife had a difficulty, that she attempted to shoot him with a pistol, and he grabbed an ax and knocked her in the head. He says there was no one present but some little children. George is now safe in Talbot county's jail, awaiting the arrival of Terrel county's sheriff.

Science in Bread Making.

At the recent annual meeting of the American Chemical Society, held in Washington, D. C., the question of the value of carbonate of aumonia as a leavening agent in bread, or a used in baking powders, came up for discussion, in which Professor Barker, of the University of Pennsylvania, and president of the society; Dr. Richardson, late of the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington; Dr. Wm. McMurtrie, late professor of chemistry in the University of Illinois; Dr. E. H. Bartley, late chemist of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Board of Health, and professor of chemistry of the Long Island College, and others took part.

The conesnsus of opinion was overwhelming in favor of the employment of ammonia. It was stated as a fact that ammonia rendered the gluten of the flour more soluble than the original gluten, and that the bread in which this action was produced by carbonate of ammonia must be more digestible and hence more healthful, and because of the extreme rolatility of carbonate of ammonia, and its complete expulsion from the bread in the process of baking, it is one of the most useful, most healthful and most valuable leavening gents known.

Macon, Ga., September 21.—[Special.]— The famous academy for the blind, which is located in this city, opened this morning with one of the largest attendances of students the institution has ever known. The returning students find things much more comfortably arranged for them than they were when they were there last year.

The new dornitory, which has been in course of construction for a number of months, is now completed and presents a very hand-some appearance to those who can see, and affords a great deal of comfort to the unfortunate blind pupils.

This new dormitory is one of the handsomest and most attractive buildings in the city.

The house is built of pressed brick, handsomely ornamented with rugged stone.

The inside of the building is even more at tractive than the outside. The large and airy rooms and halls give the students many liberties which unfortunately they could not otherwise enjoy, and enables them to learn the place the easier on eccount of its roominess. Many improvements on the main building and the ground have been made, and what was already a lovely spot, has now become one of the prettiest to be found in the city. The institution opens with about a hundred pupils, and the prospects of numerous additions to the roll are good.

The energetic president of the academy,
Rev. Mr. Williams, has done some noble work in the interests of the institution, and he can ot fail to meet with success on every hand.

The academy for the blind is an institutio of which the city of Macon is justly proud.

A FRUITLESS CHASE

After the Man Who Stole Jim Bales's Horse and Buggy.

DUBLIN, Ga., September 21.—[Special.]— Jim Bales, Dublin's live and accommodating iveryman, has returned from a fruitless search for a horse and cart which a man drove off and forgot to return. About two weeks ago a neatly-dressed man.

vearing a clerical look and a clerical coat, applied to Mr. Bales for a horse and road cart to drive down to the home of Rev. J. T. Rogers, living about twelve miles below Dublin. Th appearance of the man being that of a gentlecart without even taking his name. Several days elapsed and the stranger did not return. Jim then drove down to the home of Mr. Rogers but could find nothing of the stranger's where abouts. He continued his search, and soon ound out that the stranger had developed a taste for riding, and had gone toward Lum-ber City. To Lumber City Jim went, and found that his man had gone on into Tattnall county. He went down there, and again the fleeing stranger had driven off. Here all trace of him was lost, and Mr. Bales returned home, eaving a description of the man and horse and the hope of a reward to the man who caught him. Nothing as yet has been heard of this bold thief, and Jim Bales feels certain that if he has not met with any serious accident he is certainly about this time driving into the Gulf of Mexico or the Atlantic ocean Possibly, if the horse proves to be a good wimmer, the driver will make the circuit of the earth in about five years, and return the horse to its owner.

THEY WERE PLAYING CRAPS

Pistol.

AUGUSTA, Ga., September 21.-[Special.]-Aiken, just across the river in South Carolina, had a killing early yesterday. Both parties concerned were negroes, and the trouble arose over a game of craps. A large crowd was shooting bones in the grounds of the Aiken Scheutzen Club Saturday night. Will Whit-taker and Rance Scott were in the game. About 2 o'clock Sunday morning a dispute arose between them, and Scott, drawing his pistol, shot, killing Whittaker instantly. The murderer fied, pistol in hand, and has not been seen since. The shooting, the negroes who were in the game say, was unjustifiable.

A Carolina Murderer Arrested.

AUGUSTA, Ga., September 21.—[Special.]—
King Mays, alias George Oliver, negro murderer, who is wanted in Carolina, was captured here today. May last month murdered Chas. Williams, a negro, with an axe, on Mr. McKies' plantation, over in Edgefield county, ten miles from Augusta. He was knocking about the barrooms on Broad, above Kolocks street, this morning, when some one who knew him pointed him out to Policeman Hill. His arrest quickly followed. He is a simple talking negro, about twenty-five years old. He says he hit Williams with his fist, but somebody else killed him.

Augusta, Ga., September 21 — [Special.] — Will Jones, colored, shot and fatally wounded Sandy Williams, colored, on Mr. Sam Clark's place, near Hepzibah, yesterday. Jealousy was the cause. Jones, armed with a shotgun, went to Williams's house and called him to the door. When Williams saw Jones and his gun, he turned and attempted to run. Jones immediately fired, a load of small shot entering the back of Williams's head. Jones ran, and escaped. Warrants are out for him, but it is not learned whether he was arrested. Dr. James B. Wright attended the wounded man. He says his hurts are very serious and may prove fatal.

Joe Simmons Tells How He Escaped from the Darien Jail.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD

Is Offered for His Arrest-How He Hid in the Corridor and Let the Sheriff Lock Him Out.

DARIEN, Ga., September 21.-[Special.]-There is no longer any mystery as to how Joe Simmons, the robber, escaped from jail. At least, the "mystery" has been partially solved.

After Simmons escaped he went directly to the house of his brother, Isaiah Simmons, who lives about eighteen miles from Darien, and arrived there at 8 o'clock the following morning. He told his brother that he was not locked up in the cell at all, although he was perfectly satisfied that the sheriff thought he was. Joe says that he went into the cell, bu just at this moment the sheriff was attracted by the cries of a prisoner who was sick in a cage on the lower floor, and he at once went to his aid. After administering to the sick man the sheriff returned to Simm cell and locked it, of course feeling perfectly safe that Joe was behind the bars, as the prisoner bade him "good night." But Joe says that he was not "in it," as he had quietly a shrewdly slipped to one side in the dark in-stead of entering the cell as the sheriff suppesed when the bolt was turned. Being locked out of his cage, Joe says he found but little trouble in liberating himself from the jail, and made his escape. In substance that is about what Joe told his brother, and all the incidents of the escape show the truthfulness of the story. When Joe arrived at his brother's he was shoeless and hatless, which goes to show that he was not in the cage, or he would have carried his clothes, which were in there, off with bim. on Friday of last week and there is where he got the information about Joe. Mr. Simm told the sheriff that Joe got breakfast and de-parted immediately, and he has not seen him

On making an examination of Joe's wardrobe a few days since the sheriff discovered two sheets of note paper with pencil photo-graphic copies of the key and keyhole of the lock on the door of the robber's cell. By this discovery it was eviden that Simmons was determined upon escape and he had doubtless been planning to accom plish that end ever since he was jailed. Jos is a shrewd fellow, but if he ever gets behind those bars again it will be "good morning" with him instead of "good night."

Sheriff Bailey is doing all in his power t capture Joe Simmons, and if money and hard, earnest work will do it the robber will soon again be behind the bars. The sheriff offers a standing reward of $100 for the arrest of Simmons. We understand that there is one re-

This one is in the shape of a small jug with handle and mouth all as perfect as that of a real clay jug. We attribute this strange freak to the result of the recent prohibition election held in this county in which the "antis" came out victorious. The old hen thought it would not do for her to live in a free country and not be recorded in the history of fame—so and not be recorded in the history of fame-s she thought at present the jug was the most "striking" feature.

The male parts are well taken and the chorus girls are better looking than one usually sees. But the singing was not up to the standard. The leading fernale actress, N'ss Delmar, is good-looking and graceful, but her voice is not strong. The point wherein the company is weakest is in the grand choruses, and in these it is really weak. While you cannot class it among the first companies, still it was a fairly creditable and even performance—better than many that have been seen

It seems that, instead of being faithful to his trust, he was caught in the act of committing the same offense that he was employed to detect. So mortified was he by a sense of guilt that he went home, picked up his gun and told the lady at whose house he was living that she would never see him again alive. A short time afterwards he was found not far from the house, lying in a pool of blood, with his throat cut from ear to ear, and his gun lying by his side, evidently having changed his intention from the use of the gun to that of his knife.

The afternoon first saw a mule race. A crowd at Gravesend, with every spectator holding a card, could not have become more excited, nor watched the movements of those two mules more eagerly. Mattox finally triumphed, making the half-mile in four minutes, and then the crowd yelled with delight. Mattox pricked his ears with appreciation, and was proudly led from the track.

A sack race was next in order. A hundred yards was to be covered, and several times after starting it seemed as 'hough the race would have to be run in sections. The poor darkies fell over and rolled around, then arose and staggered on, while the crowd howled with pleasure. In the meanwhile two games of baseball were played. The Fulton Guards defeated the Governor's Volunteers by a score of 8 to 3. There was some splendid fielding. One baseman leaped into the air, caught a liner, and while descending threw in time to complete a double. Another is supposed to have slid forty-five feet. The Georgia Cadets looked on, and at the end of the first game met the Volunteers, but they, too, fell victims. Score, 6 to 2.

From the Various Departments.

Several moonshiners were compelled to cease operations yesterday.

In White county, four miles from Londsville, Deputy Collectors Ware and Spence captured and destroyed a forty-five gallon still, cap and worm, and 1,500 gallons of beer. George Winkler, the owner, was caught and brought before United States Commissioner Baker, of Dahlonega, who bound him over.

Near Porter Springs, in Lumpkin county, Deputy Marshals Ware and Spence found a copper still, cap and worms, 800 gallons of beer and twenty fermenters. Benjamin Swain was the ower of the stuff, but he managed to escape and is still at large.

At the same place Francis Seabolt's copper still, cap and worm, 600 gallons of beer and five gallons of corn whisky were seized and destroyed. While the officers were engaged in seizing his property Seabolt widened the distance between them and himself. He is perhaps still widening it.

At Lavonia, in Franklin county, Deputy Marshal W. M. Newman arrested W. B. Whitworth on the charge of operating a fiftygallon still. Five hundred gallons of beer were spilled and Whitworth carried before Commissioner Gaston, at Gainesville, who bound him over.

Newman was on the search for Coleman Ash in the same county. Ash's place was entirely destroyed—a keg of brandy, six fermenters and eight gallons of bingling,—but Ask fied and the officers were baffled.

A New Mail Service.

Yesterday information was received from Washington, D. C., that a mail service will be extended over the Marietta and North Georgia road from Blue Ridge, Ga., to Knoxville, Tenn. This will take effect on October 12th. The distance to be covered is 122 miles.

The carriers' examination, postponed from last Tuesday because of the nen-arrival of examination blanks from Washington, will be held today, beginning at 9 o'clock this morning. The examination will take place in the Circuit courtroom, and will be conducted by Messrs. Blodgett, Thibadeau and Price. These gentlemen will send the papers to the civil service committee at Washington, who will grade and return them to Atlanta. The local committee will then submit the names of all of the applicants to General Lewis with regard to efficiency. There are seventeen applicants.

The count and weighing of every piece of mail passing through the postoffice for one week was concluded last night at 12 o'clock. Today all the carriers and other employes connected with the department will be busy summing up the figures, which, Mr. Wallace Rhodes says, will take them twelve or fifteen hours to verify. The Count Ended.

Races at Gravesend. GRAVESEND, September 21.—Judging from appearances, the fight between the city poolrooms and the Brooklyn Jockey Club is virtually over. So far as the latter is concerned, the poolrooms were having everything their own way, and had clear views of the grounds from the west, north and south. Race-goers naturally expected to see huge fences today, cutting off these views, but nothing of the kind was to be seen. The Jockey Club, however, relies on its strongest card, its holding of entries.

IS HE COMING?

Yellowstone Kit Said to Be Headed

THE NEGROES BELIEVE HE IS COMING.

They Say He Will Soon Be Here, but Much About It.

Yellowstone Kit will be in Atlanta in a few by many, very many, of Atlanta's citizens, and the news of his return will create some thing of a sensation. There is no official notice of his intended trip, but the negroes say he is coming, and coming with a bigger and grander gift show and hoodoo carnival than ever before. The news of his coming doesn't seem to ome from anywhere in particular, but is just noised about generally, nearly all of the talk seeming to originate with the negroes.

But for its intenseness the enthusiasm of certain classes for this charitable and generous physician from the wooly west, would be amusing. The great power he gained when here before, and the command he assumed and was given over the negroes was almost alarming in its extent, and now most of them remember him in the pleasantest of manners. That giving away of sacks of flour, hams, cloth, shoes, sugar, and his scattering of money is all remembered, and his medicine—they almost swear by it to this day.

He's surely coming, they say, and already the negroes are full of anticipation of what he will do for them.

They say a letter has been received from him telling that he will be here soon, and is nim telling that he will be here soon, and is coming prepared, not only to cure all ills with his marvellous medicine, but also to relieve all the poor and make everybody happy.

"Good times is cumin' agin," said an old darky yesterday. "Mars Kit is a cumin' back, an' is sho' ter make us niggers well and caperbilerty of conjoying dissistance."

It's generally noised about, and the average negro is eagerly and anxiously awaiting his

Balmaceda's Confession. "Suicide is confession," said Daniel Web ater in one of his great speeches. If it is not a confession of anything else, It is at least an admission of culpable weak-

In his letter to his mother, written jus before his death, Balmaceda insists that he acted all along during the revolution with the firm conviction that he was right. His generals and advisers misrepresented everything to him. They misled him, and even to the very last he was assured that he was right and was on the eve of victory. Cruel and corrupt subordinates committed crimes that were attributed to the president's orders. but of which he was entirely ignorant until after their occurrence.

Briefly, this is the dying statement of the overthrown ruler of Chile. If we accept it at its face value, the conclusion is inevitable that the president was a weak and incapable man trying to fill a role which demanded a stronger and abler leader.

Viewed in this light, Balmaceda was responsible for unnecessary bloodshed and pillage. Good intentions go for nothing, when a man is too weak to carry them out and too selfish to sacrifice his personal ambition in the interests of peace.

Perhaps suicide was the best way out of the muddle. The Spanish-Americans are ready for any atrocity when their blood is They would not have given Balmaceda a fair showing. He would have been torn to pieces by the mob. His dead body would have been subjected to every possible indignity. Russia in America.

Last week 600 operatives at the Millville (N. J.) glass works went on a strike. The strikers did not demand higher

On the Right Line. Hon. John Tyler Cooper's letter in this issue makes a good suggestion concerning the road congress.

Mr. Cooper's idea is that the district road nissioners in each county should meet and select the delegates to the congress. They can take practical men from their own number, or outside. The main point is to get practical experts in road-making.

With a congress composed of such dele gates, it is safe to say that something will be done to secure a better system of public roads and a better system of road laws.

Sherman as a Great Man.

Among the eastern republicans, John Sherman poses as a very great man. The Philadelphia Press says he is the equal of Alexander Hamilton as a financier; and this remark is calculated to take one's breath away, particularly when it is borne in mind erman fits his views to the necessities of his party, or to what he believes to be the views of the people.

It is not so very long ago that John wa posing as a greenbacker in Ohio politics, and nding that the bonds should be paid money with which they were purchased. It is not so very long ago that he denounced his own views, declaring that the bonds should be paid in gold, otherwise the country would begin to suffer at once from an acute attack of shame and disgrace.

The allusion to Alexander Hamilton ems to be a distressing plece of party humor. Think, for a moment, of such a man as Hamilton declaring from the stump (as Sherman has declared in Ohio, at Pauld-(as Sherman has declared in Ohio, at Paulding and elsewhere) that the free coinage of silver involves the purchase by the government of all the silver that is offered it! We have never been able to get any of Mr. Sherman's eastern admirers to tell us what they think of this remarkable statement. The Boston Herald, posing as the four-legged girl, and standing on any plank of any platform that seems to be within reach of its various feet, is dumb; and, naturally, it is not expected that the partisan organs rill comment too freely on such an aston shing display of ignorance. In the bold and bouncing west, however, even the partisan republican leaders are not so mincing of their words, and heretofore they have been somewhat free in dealing with Sherman. On a memorable occa-sion, Field Marshal Halstead, who is now a Brooklyn exile, published a statement that General Tecumseh Sherman was crazy. On another memorable occasion, not so long ago, Mr. Halstead showed his opinion of John Sherman by printing the forged signature of that statesman (along with other forged signatures) in the ballot-box case.

By means of this publication Mr. Halstead let the world know that, in his opinion, Sherman is capable of great rascality. The probability is that Halstead struck the keynote.

Concerning Primary Elections.

The bill introduced by Representative Huff, of Bibb, "to protect primary elections in this state, and to punish frauds committed thereat," is an effort to secure a muchneeded reform.

We have already published the main provisions of the bill. If it becomes a law the primary elections held under it will be just as well guarded as the regular state elections. The managers will be sworn, the ballot boxes and the depositing and counting of ballots will be governed by strict rules, and heavy penalties will be imposed upon managers and voters for any corrupt or frauduent conduct in an election.

Undoubtedly, if we are to have primary elections, we need such a law as the one proposed, or one substantially resembling it. If these elections are not protected and safely guarded against fraud they will degenerate into mere burlesques, and under their cover it will be easy for unscrupulous men to defeat the choice of the people.

The effect of a primary election in many communities is practically the same as that of a regular election. This being the case it is a matter of the highest importance to purify this preliminary ballot, and throw around it the effective sanction of the law, with adequate penalties for fraud and vio-

Society and the Criminal.

While we have among us plenty of optimists who say that the world is growing better, there are thoughtful students of the situation who take a very different view. In a recent sermon the Rev. Dr. Rober

Fletcher, of Washington, D. C., said: In the cities, towns and villages of the civilized world thousands of unoffending men and womer are annually slaughtered, and millions of money, the product of honest labor and careful saving are carried away by the conqueror. This modern "scourge of God," whose deeds are not recorded in history, is the criminal. Statistics show us that in nine great countries of the world, including our own favored land, in one year 10,380 cases of homi-cide were recorded, and in the six years, extend-ing from 1884 to 1889, in the United States alone, ing from 1884 to 1889, in the United States alone 14,770 murders came under cognizance of the law And what has society done to protect itself against this aggressor? True, there are criminal codes, courts of law, and that surprising survival of the unfittest, trial by jury; vast edifices have been built as prisons and reformatories, and philanthropic persons have formed societies for the anthropic persons have formed societies for the instruction of the criminal, and to care for him when his prison gates are open. But in spite of

According to these facts and figures the criminal is slowly but surely coming to the front. Punishment and reform movements have not rendered him less active. He wants the earth, and has a good share of it already in his grip. Unless there is a great and a speedy change for the better we must prepare to multiply our prisons, reforma ories and scaffolds.

It is plain that society is losing ground in its ceaseless warfare against the criminal. Now, what is the explanation? Is it because the world is growing better, or because it is Joe Howard thus describes Santa Anna in The New York Recorder: "Santa Anna was for many years virtual ruler of Mexico, and as general of its armics conducted battles fought between Mexico and the United States in the forties. He was defeated by General Zachary Taylor and by General Winfield Scott, and then, after a series of pros and cons, victory having perched upon the banners of the United States, he left his country for his country for his country's good, returning, however, some time in 1833, when he was appointed president for life, with the title of Most Serene Highness. He was so tyrannical, however, that revolutions soon began and he was defeated and exiled until the empire was established by Maximilian, who made Santa Anna grand marshal of the empire. The grand marshal was a tricky fellow, and evinced that trait hy compiring against the man who made him, even going so far as to propose to the United States to raise an army time on his entire life was apent in futile endeavors to induce his fellow countrymen to rebel, in one of which, having succeeded in inducing some few thousand followers to make an essay with him, he was defeated, taken prisoner and condemned to death, but pardoned on condition of his quitting Maxican soil forever. He left Mexico, came to this country and took up his residence in New Jersey, my recollection being that it was in the vicinity of Elizabeth or Morristown. I don't remember distinctly which. At all events I was sent to interview him there, and was much impressed by the dignity, the calmness and the reposeful quality of the old man's nature. He was reputed to be extremely feroclous in battle, markedly severe with prisoners and rigid to the verge of injustice with political opponents fallen into his power. He impressed me, however, as being a man of pronounced character, with eyes indicative of craft, a tremendous chin showing determination and a square-set jaw, revealing the full doggedness of his disposition. Over this, however, lay the polish and the bonhomie of a man of the world, and his address and bearing were such as to compel admiration even in a stranger."

For the Road Congress.

EDITOR CONSTITUTION—Your editorial of yesterday, agitating the question of the road congress, to be held October 28th next, and urging the importance of proper representation from each county in the state, is timely and well put, and I beg the use of your columns to make a sug-gestion that, if adopted, will be in keeping with the tone of your remarks and give the proper There was a road congress held in Atlanta a There was a road congress held in Awanta a few years ago which accomplished very little good, if any, and, in my opinion, the reason is that it was composed of representatives who failed to comprehend thoroughly the subject matter which they had met to consider, and who did not pursue the proper methods necessary to bring about the desired results.

bring about the desired results.

We all know the advantages to be derived from good public roads. We know what constitutes a good road, and we know how they should be built, but a great many of us do not know the practical method of working our roads under the laws of the state, nor do we know of the trials and tribulations encountered by the road with and tribulations encountered by the road nals in their efforts to enforce the law. We do not all know of the defects in these laws, nor the proper remedy to cure these defects in order to nake a more perfect system.

This leads me to the purpose of my communica-

Let the representatives to the road congress be selected by the district road commissioners of each county. They are the men who have charge of the roads in the several militia districts, whose duty it is to enforce these defective laws, and who are therefore most apt to know wherein they are defective, and better able to suggest the

I propose that the district road commission of each county assemble in convention and select as delegates to the road congress, either from their own number or from other sources, such practical men as they know to be familiar with the workings of the road laws. A road congress composed of politicians or of men inexperienced in road work under the laws of Georgia will not find the proper remedy, and will do no practical good.

If, by your advocacy of this plan, you shall cause it to be generally adopted, it will very likely give us a good system of road laws, and THE CON-STITUTION will be entitled to and will receive the thanks of the public. Respectfully, JOHN T. COOPER.

A TRIFLE GOSSIPY.

The suggestion made in these columns a few days ago that Atlanta, being proverbially a con-vention city, ought to have a hall large enough to accommodate several thousand people, is about to bear fruit. Mr. Sam Small has taken the matter up and proposes to push it to a suc-cess. He will call it a tabernacle, but it will be just the kind of a building that Atlanta peeds.

Theodore Thomas, with his inc hestra, would have visited Atlanta last year but for the lack of a suitable hall in the city where he could give his concerts. The hall which Mr. Small designs erecting will be the very place for big deliberative assemblages, symphony concerts, musical festivals and military fairs.

Dr. Edward J. Goddes, of whom mention was made in yesterday's Constitution, left Atlanta last evening for New York. Mr. Calvin, of Richmond. says: "Had not Major Ryals, of Chatham, introduced a resolution ast fall requesting our senators and representatives in congress to use their influence and votes to secure the repeal of the ten-percent tax on the issue of state banks, I would introduce it now for the sole purpose of incorporating in it a suggestion as to the policy the event the obnoxious act were repealed. I am tempted to put the thought in the form of a supplementary resolution and introduce it anyway. This is the idea I have in my mind: I would convey to congress the suggestion that the repealing act should be conditioned that the same shall not become operative in any state until such state shall have provided statute that, before beginning business, each state bank shall deposit with the state treasurer, state, United States or municipal and solvent securities to the amount of the bills each of such banks proposes to emit."

The Piedment Exposition, Clerk Woodward read the following: We beg to inform you that the Piedmont ex-position will hold an annual exposition this year from October 19th to November 7th. It will be accessary to have officers there three days before the gates open and three days after they close. We feel safe in saying to you that this exposition will far excel any that we have ever heretofore that we have seemed reduced railroad rates will far excel any that we have ever heretofore had. We have secured reduced railroad rates from all the roads, and we expect large numbers of visitors from all portions of the country, and we respectfully ask that you will furnish the meessary police and fire protection during this time for our visitors and the property of our exhibitors at the exposition grounds. It is unnecessary to say to you that while this exposition is managed by your fellow citizens as a private enterprise, it is strictly and solely in the interest of our whole people, and for the purpose of bringing to the notice of aur county the immense and valuable resources of the Piedmont region, and not in any sense a ar county the immense and valuable resources of the Piedmont region, and not in any sense a source of profit to the management. H. L. WILSON, J. W. ENGLISH, JR., Committee.

Mr. English Heard.

Mr. English Heard.

"I understand," said Mr. Rice, "that the committee wishes to be heard regarding this communication; I observe one of the members, Captain J. W. English, present, and I move that the rules be suspended, so that Captain English can be heard."

Captain English approached the bar and made a short address regarding the Piedmont axposition. He spoke of its objects and urged the necessity of the council's complying with the committee's request for police and fire protection. Captain English stated that he had called on Captain Joyner, of the fire department, and asked him to estimate the cost of providing fire protection. The appropriation last year, Captain Joyner told him, was $300, and $196 additional had been spent. He calculated that this year $500 would be sufficient. Captain English said he had also ascertained that $2,300 was the amount required to meet the expense of providing police protection.

"Cap't we defer this matter?" one of the "Can't we defer this matter?" one of the members asked Captain English.

"I am informed," Captain English resumed.
"that the police commissioners are desirous of acting soon, so that good men may be selected."

Mr. Rice—I move to refer the matter to the Aff. Rice—I move to refer the matter to the finance committee. I shall call an early meeting of the committee, and if any way for raising the money can be devised, I will ask the mayor to call a special meeting of the council, if necessary, to take action.

The motion was referred to the finance committee.

The motion was referred to the finance committee.

Three Station House Keepers.

"I have a resolution here," said Mr. King, "creating a third station house keeper. The board of police commissioners desares to increase the number, and to work them eight bours just as the patrolmen are worked."

"I can't support that measure," said Mr. Rice. "By it we give the station house keepers, eight hours, and make the turnkeys and drivers work twelve hours. To make this change asked for means to change all around, and that would cause an additional expense of five hundred to six hundred dollars within the next eighteen months—the bisance of the term for which this police force was organized. I am opposed to it because it increases the expense and because it is a discrimination, too."

Mr. Reinhardt favored the change.

"If it was my own business," said Mr. Turner, "I'd hesitate to increase my expense that way unless I knew where the money is to come from. At least, I'd want to wait and see. I move to table the paper, anyway."

The motion to table was lost.

"Mr. Reinhardt," said Mr. Rice, "asserts that the turnkey's place is passed around. But he's mistaken. They are as good men as any on the force. Two men agreed to do the station house work for $1,200 s year. We gave them $900 and they took it. Then we added the two turnkeys and an officer as the city has, to carry the prisonate of the places."

"I'll vets."

"that is for the good of the city. But I'm in no hurry to vote unless the necessity is apparent, and I don't think it is just here. Let it go to the police committee, and let that committee give it a thorough investigation. If it is necessary, and we have the money, I'll vote for it. I move its reference to the police committee."

Mr. Shropshire opposed the change. "We have," said he, "nearly a million dollars to spend within the next eighteen months in new waterworks and new stationhouse and bridges, and we can't do it if we haven't the money."

The paper was referred

The claims committee recommended the payment of $300 to W. R. Brown; of $219 to J. F. Burke; of $175 to Mr. Snelling; of $160 to W. H. George; of $150 to Mrs. S. W. Clark; of $100 to G. W. Adair, agent; of $100 to John F. Edwards; of $40 to E. S. McCandless; of $25 to A. L. Wimbish—all this was for damage claims.

All About a Buggy.

All About a Buggy.

"May I ask the chairman of the committee," said Mr. Woodward, "why no report has been submitted on the petition of Dr. Love, whose buggy was broken up."

"We have held that back," said Mr. Hulsey, "because Dr. Love, Sr., was hurt when the buggy was broken up, and a report here might prejudice a suit if one is brought against the city."

"That's no excuse," said Mr. Woodward.

"It was the young Dr. Love's buggy, and it was broken up. Somebody owes him for it. Either the city or his father. The two cases are separate."

"The city attorney has advised me in my action," said Mr. Hulsey. "The two cases are alike. If the city is liable for the buggy it is liable, too, for Dr. Love's injury. But we are uncertain whether the city is liable for either. A railroad caused the city's mule to run away, and the mule did the damage. Now, maybe the railroad and not the city is liable."

Electrical Matters.

The electric committee ordered seventeen additional arc and eight additional incandescent electric lights for streets.

The Gate City Street Railroad Company was given the right to use electricity on Jackson and other streets.

Mr. Middlebrooks's ordinance, prohibiting the employment of incompetent or drunken men in handling electrical work, was adouted. The committee submitted two reports on the petition of the Edgewood line to use Peachtree street on the west side of the artesian well. The majority report favored the petition. "I move the adoption of the minority report, which is against it," said Mr. Hendrix.

The petition was refused.

The City Taxes.

Mr. Woodward presented a resolution instructing the tax collector to give receipts for checks received by him for city taxes up to 12 o'clock Saturday night, September 19th. It also instructed the tax collector to receive the money and to give receipts to all persons who make affidavit that they appeared and were unable on account of the great crowd to gain admission to the tax office on the last day.

Mr. Reinhardt had one extending the time of paying taxes to September 30th.

The two papers created a lengthy discussion.

Mr. Reinhardt's was defeated.

Mr. Woodward's resolution was adopted—it being the idea that it should apply to those who were in the building Saturday afternoon when the doors closed.

New Buildings.

The fire department committee reported favorable for building permits of J. B. Goodwin, 152 Smith street; Josiah Carter, 57 South Broad street; L. L. Abbott, 143 South Pryor street; W. H. Young, corner Spring and Western and Atlantic railroad; Rosser & Co., 39 East Hunter; F. D. Nichols, 353 Marietta street; W. J. Smith, 29 Piedmont avenue. The Pawnbrokers.

Mr. Hulsey presented an ordinance requir ing pawnbrokers to make datly reports of business to the chief of police and per mitting inspection at any time. Mr. King favored the ordinance.

"I presented that ordinance," said Mr. Hulsey, "as chairman of the ordinance committee, but I'm opposed to it."
Mr. Woodward favored the ordinance.

Mr. Woodward lavored the ordinance.
So did Mr. Hendrix.
Mr. Hutchison opposed the ordinance.
Mr. Reinhardt presented an amendment requiring all men to report their thefts to the chief of police.
The ordinance was adopted.

The ordinance was adopted.

An ordinance requiring a five-hundred-dollar license from all speculators in show tickets was adopted.

J. M. Stephens was granted permission to connect with sewer on Peters and Chapel streets. Mrs. John Keely was exempted from sewer connection tax. So was T. A. Shelton. H. H. Smith was allowed to connect with the Linden street sewer.

Ordinances constructing a sewer on Capitol avenue at a cost of $675, on Crew street at a cost of $1,800, and on Angier avenue at a cost of $1,800, were read.

A Question of Pavements. A petition, signed by property owners who live on Peachtree street between Third street and the city limits, asking the council to pass an ordinance requiring an eight-foot pavement for Peachtree street, was received and referred to the committee on streets.

an ordinance requiring an eight-root pavement for Peachtree street, was received and referred to the committee on streets.

Mr. King, chairman of the police committee, submitted a favorable report on the petition of W. A. Vernoy, 27 North Pryor street, for a retail liquor license, and R. Schmidt, 25 Whitehall street, wholesale wine license. The reports-were adopted.

S. A. McDonald asked for an extension of his beer license on West Peters street.

A. Gershen, 37 West Peters street, and E. A. Franklin, 101 West Peters street, asked for beer licenses.

There were two reports on these applications—a majority and a minority report, the former favoring and the latter opposing them.

Mr. Woodward spoke in favor of McDonald, and urged the granting of his request for an extension of his license.

Mr. Lambert advocated the petition. He saw no reason why some should be granted and others shut off.

The vote was taken on the minority report, the yeas and nays being called—yeas, 8; navs, 9. So the majority report was agreed to.

A favorable report, unanimously signed, was made by the police committee on the following petitions for beer licenses:

M. Bender, West Hunter street; W. H. Fulton, No. 209 West Peters street; L. F. Trotziers, No. 596 Marietta street; John M. Hale, No. 304 Marietta street; W. D. J. M. High's Great Emporium Opens with a Grand Ovation.

THE DECORATIONS ARE MARVELOUS.

Magnificent Work of Mr. Patric nnor and His Assistants—It Is Opened with an Ovation.

The opening up of High's magnificent dry goods emporium goes on record as the bigges event of the kind that ever occurred in the

It occurred last night, and the whole of At lanta turned out to witness the grand affair. Mr. High's large force of assistants had arranged the interior of the matchless building in an attractive manner, which completely en-chanted all those who were present.

The splendid new building, a friumph of architectural skill, was brilliantly lighted from top to bottom, and the show windows, beauti fully arranged, presented a charming picture No attempt was made to sell anything—i was the opening of the greatest dry goods house in the south, a grand reception by Mr. High to his friends.

Shortly after 7 o'clock the band on the se ond floor struck up a martial air, and a few minutes later several ladies and gentlemen stolled into the store and looked around upon the enchanting scene. They were closely fol-lowed by others, and in a few minutes the first floor, second floor and third floor of the bril-liantly lighted store were absolutely packed and jammed with humanity.

It forcibly reminded one of the first Piednont exposition held here, which was attended by such crowds as have never attended those held subsequently.

The sidewalks in front of the store were crowded until they were impassable. They were admiring the magnificently arranged show windows in front.

The front show window is the largest in the south. It is thirty-four feet long, fourteen feet high and ten feet deep. One of the most feet high and ten feet deep. One of the most elegant and attractive displays of ladies suits has been arranged in this window by Mr. Patrick A. O'Connor, the designer and decorator of High's establishment, in an extremely artistic manner. This window contains 300 suits, copied from the latest designs by Worth. No dressmaker in any city has a better assortment of goods. The draperies are neatly arranged by Mr. O'Connor, with their colors nicely blended, so as to make everything harmonize.

Two wax figures, life size, with natural hair and revolving by electricity, are in this window. They are handsomely draped in the latest style fabrics and each one has on a cloak of the latest design. Twelve other cape stands are in this window, upon which the latest and newest things are shown.

In the center of the window is a Maypole, around which two little wax girls are revolving by electricity.

The window fronting on Hunter street is of the same size as the one in front. It is artistically arranged with a full and complete line of carpets. Some of the most beautiful and richly colored carpets ever seen in the city are displayed in this window. Mr. High and richly colored carpets ever seen in the city are displayed in this window. Mr. High will carry the largest line of carpets of any firm in the southern states. Seventy different patterns of carpets are represented in the window. The magnificent curtains and portieres are draped so as to bring out the effect of the carpets, and at the same time are draped in the latest style.

But in the center of the window is an object that attracts a great deal of attention. It is a representation of the steamship "Iroquis," and is said to be a perfect representative of this famous steamer of the Clyde steamship lines. It was made with a knife by Mr. Wescott, one of Mr. O'Connor's assistants. It, is ten feet long, and is a perfect ship in every detail. It has the passengers standing on the deck, the captain standing on the bridge looking out ahead, and the sailors busy about their duties. The rear show window facing Hunter is occupied by "The Dresden." It is filled with all kinds of crockery, china, glassware, silverware, etc. The general effect is good.

A Triumph of Art. One of the rear show windows is filled with shoes. In the skillful arrangement of the shoes in this window, Mr. O'Connor, the artist,

There is a larger quantity of gents' furnishing goods in this one window than is carried by any other house in the city. Mr. O'Connor and his assistants spent two days in arranging this window.

The Magnificent Interior. The interior of the store, brilliantly lighted as it was last night, makes a magnificent pict ure. Last night it was perfectly indescribable.

The interior of the building is most elegantly finished, and the departments have been located with splendid judgment and taste.

A row of shelving is on either side of the building with a row splitting the building in two in the middle.

To the right, on entering, the hosiery department is located. Thirty-four feet of shelving is occupied by this department, all of which is filled with brand new goods. Fronting this, in the center shelving, is the wash dress goods department. Ginghams and satines are shown in draperies and in suits. On top a display of the goods is artistically arranged in draperies. This department is forty feet long.

On top of the center row of shelving are some of the most artistic designs ever made by any decorator. They were conceived in the fertile brain of Mr. O'Connor, the genius of the

The first is a representation of the royal castle in Lisbon, Portugal. This is made of gloves, and presents a handsome appearance.

The next is the "Palace of Longchamps," Marseilles, France, which is arranged out of handkerchiefs. All colors and qualities of handkerchiefs are harmoniously blended together and combined to give the palace a palatial appearance.

The next is the "Great Pagods of Confucius," in Asia. This is built of gaily-colored ribbons on framework, and is a perfect piece of workmanship.

Following this is the "Cathedral at Canterbury," Great Britain, which is made of laces, with a red background. The tower to this miniature structure is twelve feet high. This was one of the most highly admired of all the designs.

The last of these designs is the "Town Hall at Brussels," which is made of different colored ruching. This is a grand work of art, and was surrounded by throngs of people last night who were enchanted by its beauty.

ATLANTA PEOPLE AND THEIR FRIENDS.

Some Who Are Here and Some Who Are Not-Gossip About People and Things in General.

A special from Lithonia announces the approaching marriage of Mr. William Pinckney Hill, Atlanta's popular and prosperous young attorney, to Miss Grace D. Cocke, a young lady well known in Atlanta and a sister of Mrs. Orr Venable. Miss Cocke is not only beautiful, but is possessed of such brillians attainments at c make her popular. brilliant attainments as to make her popular rever she is known. Than Mr. Hill, Atlanta wherever she is known. Than Mr. Hill, Atlanta has not a more popular member of the bar, nor is there a young man in the city who is more generally respected than he. The announcement of his approaching wedding will be read with great pleasure by his many friends, as well as by those of the young lady. Our Lithonia special says:

"LITHONIA, Ga., September 21.—[Special.]—Lithonia will be largely interested on Wednesday, the 30th instant, the prospective bride being Miss Grace D. Cocke, of Virginia, a sister of Mrs. Orr Venable, and the groom being Colonel William P. Hill, of the Atlanta bar.

Hill, of the Atlanta bar.
"Miss Cocke has been visiting her sister for a short while. She is well known in Atlanta where she remained for a year, and belongs to one of Virginia's best old families. Mr. Venable is here Virginia's best old families. Mr. Venanie is here in charge of the large granite works of the Vena-ble Brothers, of Atlanta, and both he and his wife are very popular among our people. Miss Cocke is a younger sister of Mrs. Venable, and is a most estimable and attractive young lady."

Everybody should attend the concert to be given by the Society of Christian Endeavor of the Fifth Baptist church, on Friday evening next at 8 o'clock. This concert will be given at Prohibi-tion hall, 65½ East Alabama street, and will be a treat to the lovers of good music, fun and recita-tions. THE COUNTY COURTHOUSE.

Gossip Gathered Yesterday in the Various

The city court met yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, Judge Howard Van Epps presiding. In the case of Jessie vs. the Equitable Accident Insurance Company a verdict was rendered for the plaintiff for $131.59 and $27.63,

In the case of Henderson vs. the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, which was a suit for $1,500 damages, was dismissed on de-murrer. This was a case involving some interesting points. The plaintiff was riding on one of the cars of the Metropolitan Street rail-way and the conductor ejected him thorefrom because he refused to ride elsewhere than on the platform.

In the case of Mrs. M. F. May vs. Robert

In the case of Mrs. M. F. May vs. Robert Dewy, Sr., judgment was entered for $583.33 principal, $124.77 interest and $60.71 attorneys' fees.

The case of D. C. Goza vs. T. S. Lewis was dismissed at the plaintiff's instance.

The case of P. E. Hudson vs. the Georgia Pacific Railway Company was taken up. This is a suit for $30,000 damages for personal injuries from a fall through a cut in a trestle in Alabama, while the plaintiff was giving a signal to the engineer of a moving train.

The case was well under way when court adjourned at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and will consume the greater part of today.

THE RYAN CASE. A Lively Fight Expected Before Judge

Clarke Today. At 3 o'clock this afternoon the Ryan case will be called before Judge Marshall J. Clarke in the superior court.

The three bids for the stock of goods, store, fixtures, etc., which were opened and read in court last Saturday morning by Receiver Kingsberry, will be considered. Nearly every lawyer in any way interested in the case—and about one-half of the Atlanta bar has some connection with it-will be present this afternoon.

ent this afternoon.

Judge Clarke will be urged by some of the lawyers to accept the bids made by Claffin, of New York, as being the best offer made.

Other attorneys will insist that this bid, as well as the other two bids, shall be rejected.

Mr. Claffin has a representative here who will endeavor to convince the court that to accept this bid will be the best thing to do.

Since Judge Clarke may reject all the bids, if he so elects, there is no telling in advance what course the proceedings will take. It is safe to assume, however, that the case will furnish some sensational disclosures.

The Big Stage and Grandstand

The Big Stage and Grandstand.

Yesterday morning over 500 hands started to work at the Piedmont exposition grounds on the fine grandstand and stage, and the grandstand, when completed, will be almost an entirely new structure and will accommodate between ten and twelve thousand people. Mr. C. W. Berry, who has the contract for building the stage, started to work this morning with a large force of hands, and its contract calls for the completion by the 10th of October. Mr. Berry says that in the short time in which he has to do-the work, he is positive that he will lose money on his contract, and the job is a larger one than any one imagined, as the stage has to be built very strong to hold the thousand people who take part in the play, and also the horses. The dressing rooms have to be built under the stage, "and really this is such a difficult job that I would rather build four houses than one such stage," says Mr. Berry.

Who Will Furnish the Music?

Who Will Furnish the Music?

The question now is, who will have charge of the music at the exposition? A new state of affairs has developed, and the directors are very anxious to have fine music at the exposition, and the question now is, will it be the Mexican band? Ballangers's band, with the great cornetist, Herman Bellstadt, Jr., or will we have Weber's band, from Cincinnati, or the famous Thirty-second regiment band, of New York, or Marston, with the Zouaze band? This will be the question discussed tomorrow. And maybe the Rooster orchestra will put in a bid to play for "King Solomon."

An Important Meeting will be held at 'half-past 7 o'clock, to discuss matters of importance that must be settled immediately. Everything is red-hot, and the officers feel proud of the great exposition. Remember the dates, October 19th to November 7th. And the 1-cent rate on the railroads.

The house was all attention in an instant.

"And gentlemen of the house," added Mr. Clifton, "I move that the privileges of the floor be extended to this young gentleman—the Hon. Clark Howell Stephens, of Heard county."

The motion was put and carried amidst laughter and cheers. The youngster responded by waving his chubby hands and laughing as if he enjoyed it

"Gentlemen," added Mr. Clifton, "he's too young to take the place of our distinguished speaker—after whom he was named—just now, but I have no doubt he will be old enough and wise enough in time."

Then the house cheered again, and the baby responded vigorously, cooing with delight. He seemed to realize his importance, and it is difficult to say which enjoyed the occasion more—the Hon. Clark Howell Stephens, of Heard county, or the "war horse" from Chatham.

Here is another resolution on the same rule and by the same author, looking to an adjournment some time in October.

Resolved, That beginning with today, the house hold two sessions daily, except Saturday, to-wit: From 9 o'clock a. m. until 1 o'clock p. m. and from 3 to 5 o'clock p. m. and from 3 to 5 o'clock p. m.

Provided, That no general bills be discussed, or put upon their passage at the afternoon session miless so ordered at the morning session by a two-tirds vote.

It was adopted.

Here is a voto message that explains itself:
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, ATLANTA, Ga., Septimber 21, 1891.—To the House of Representatives; Irespectfully return to the house of representatives;
ires, without my approval, house bill No. 589, entitled "An act to locate the office of tax collector datarens county."

The bill, in my opinion, is unconstitutional in the particulars: First, it changes the general law applications by fixing a different rule for the tax ellectors, by fixing a different rule for the tax ellectors of Laurens, county from the one prescribed by law for the tax collectors in other cunties, thus destroying the uniformity required by article 1, section 4, paragraph 1 of the constitution. Second, section 3 of this bill makes it a cime to fail to perform the duties prescribed, and fixes the punishment for a violation of the law. The title of this bill does not ever or allude to the provisions of the third section, and is, therefore, obnoxious to the clause of the constitution which requires that the title ball express the purposes of the law, and that no bill shall become a law which contains matter different from what is expressed in the title. all express the purposes of the law, and that no all express the purposes of the law, and that no ill shall become a law which contains matter filerent from what is expressed in the title. W. J. NORTHEN.

The bill, with the governor's veto, was re-letted to the general judiciary committee.

The Senate.

Yesterday was an off day in the senate.

That body of distinguished statesmen had nothing to do, and they showed their good sense by adjourning, although it was quite evident that more than one senator was loaded for a buncombe speech.

The only thing done was to read Friday's journal, read a number of house bills for the first time, and then adjourn to meet at 10 o'clock this morning.

The story is going the rounds of the capitol that Messiah Tom Watson is playing for the governorship. His friends say all he needs to make his election a sure thing is for the alliance to combine on him. Governor Northen went down to Greens boro yesterday afternoon to a Baptist conven-tion.

The substitute for the Berner bill, which has been agreed upon by Mr. Berner and Mr. Goodwin, will be called up in the house on Thursday. At least it is the intention of Mr. Berner to call it up on that day.

The Sibley Convict Bill.

The county commissioners have taken a hand in legislation.

A communication signed by four out of five of them is now in the hands of Representative Sibley, of Cobb county. It is in the nature of instructions to the Fulton representatives. It reads:

instructions to the Fulton representatives. It reads:

"We, the county commissioners of Fulton county, request you to assist in the passage of the act introduced by Mr. Sibley, of Cobb county, entitled 'An act to provide for the disposal of felons sentenced to terms not exceeding five years."

The names signed are those of Commissioners Collins, Wilson, Hunnicutt and Garrett.

The other commissioner, Col. J. W. Nelms, ex-principal keeper of the penitentiary, does not sign his name to the paper.

The bill provides, in substance, that in all cases of felony, when the term of sentence imposed does not exceed five years, it shall be the duty of the presiding judge to sentence such convict to serve in the chaingang, under the direction of the county authorities, upon the public works or such other works as the county authorities may employ the chaingang.

"The short term convicts." or those whose county authorities may employ the changang.

"The short term convicts," or those whose sentence is not over five years, are more than 50 per cent of the whole number of convicts.

Last year, out of 434 convicts received by the penitentiary authorities, 244 were short term convicts. Out of thirty-seven men sent from Fulton county, twenty-seven were short term men. This represents the proportion of convicts that under the proposed law would have been kept at work with the chaingangs in the several counties where their crimes were committed.

Thinks the Comparison Unfair.

"The comparison of the correspondent who endeavors to show that the ninety-four who voted against accepting the Confederate Home do not voice the sentiment of the state, is exceedingly unfair on its face, "said Dr. Baldwin, of Randolph, yesterday. "The fair comparison would have been in the population represented by the sixty-two who voted for the bill, as against all those who did not vote for it virtually cast his vote against it. There were ninety-four, however, who actually voted against it and they represent within three hundred of the majority of the people of the whole state. Now of the eighteen who did not vote, already eight have signed and approved the address of the ninety-four. The population this eight represents carries the total population thus represented as being opposed to the bill, to nearly seventy thousand, over half of the total population of the state. While it is true that the population represented by the ninety-four came within only 300 less than half of the state; it is at the same time true that the vote of the sixty-two did not come within many thousands of half of the state's population. But, from the signatures of all those who opposed the bill, it will be seen that 70,000 more than half of the people of the state are represented on our consciences, and that is what we most desired to do. To be more exact in the relative strength of popular approval, the ninety-four, with the eight who have signed the address, represent 937, one people; riving the other side every other vote, it has only 849,66s, a difference of 135,000 in our favor."

A Movement Set on Foot to Establish One at Manchester.

THERE IS WATER ENOUGH FOR ATLANTA

Lake to Be Made on the North Side of the Town-The Question of Drainage.

A large crowd will go down to Manche at 10 o'clock this morning to look over the town. The popularity of the place is increas-ing day by day, and Mr. Bialock expects to have forty houses in process of erection within a month or two. He says he could rent house now if he had them.

A Teachers' Institute.

The Manchester company has set apart 10 per cent, of the receipts from land sales to be used for public schools. A part of this fund will be appropriated to the establishment of the necessary hallding for a teachers' instithe necessary building for a teachers' insti-tute, if the project now on foot among some of the leading educators of the state should materialize. If they do what they propose Mr. Blalock says the company will put up an amphitheater large enough to seat 7,500

When the broad educational plan mapped out for Manchester was published it put some of our best teachers to thinking. An idea that occurred to some of them was that it would be a happy thing if a teachers' institute could be established in a town already charged with the atmosphere of learning. No more congenial spot could be found for the progressive teachers of Georgia to meet, exchange ideas and at tend lectures and normal classes. Some of them with business heads figured out a plan by which, with some help from the Mancheste company, they think they will succeed in establishing a teachers' institute

The main features of the plan are these The company will be expected to donate as much land as may be necessary, and in addition, to furnish the bulk of the money to build an amphitheater or assembly hall. With that much guaranteed, the teachers propose to do the rest. The idea is to organize a with a bona fide capital of $50,000, the stock subscription of which is to be paid in easy installments of say 10 per cent down, and 5 per the money in the treasury within eighteen months. The amount of stock subscribed by each teacher will be moderate, stock company will own the grounds and the amphitheater, and in addition each stockholder will acquire property on the grounds in proportion to the amount subscribed. For example, a teacher subscribing to $400 of the stock would become the owner in fee simple of a neat cottage of three rooms, with enough ground to make the occupants comfortable. In addition the teacher would own the stock just as before, and this, it is calculated, would gain as much from the gift of lands and the appreciation of value as it cost the com pany to erect the cottages. In other words, the teacher will have his original investment and the cottage to boot, the latter having been made by the contribution of the and company and enhanced by the pres of the teachers themselves. The land will be on it, and this is an example of the truth that

'Brains are the best fertilizer."

Of course, the land company will lose nothing by making a liberal donation of land for this enterprise. The two schools already secured made the town, and a teachers' institute will make it that much more. Indeed, the whole success of the Manchester enterprise is due to the broad-gauge liberality with which all comers have been treated. Mr. Blalock said, with reference to the teachers' institute: "This is the teachers' enterprise, and they have charge of it, but the Manchester company will give them what they ask. The idea comes from some of the strongest men in the educational field of the state, and I have confidence in their ability to carry it out. I believe the project will suc-

One of the chief advantages of the location of Manchester is the abundant water supply-larger than the present supply of Atlanta, and much purer. The water or Atlanta, and much purer. The water gushes from a number of springs on the tract of land, and upon these sources the waterworks system to be erected will draw. In the mean-time, good water may be reached almost any-

The charter reported by the committee has been accepted by a meeting of the home builders, and is now in the hands of a legislative committee. Mr. Lewis, chairman of the house committee on corporations, thinks there will be ample time for the charter to pass at this session of the general assembly. RESENTING AN INSULT TO HIS DAUGHTER

A North Carolina Merchant the Badly Punished Aggressor - Knocked Through a Window.

H. T. Jenkins, the tobacco man, of Henon, N. C., who is well known in Atlanta, has been playing an engagement in Ohio. The Cincinnati Enquirer's Dayton corresent tells the following story:

Pete Baker, who has delighted thousands at the Park theater this week in delineations of the German character in the comedy-dramas of "Bismarck" and "The Emigrant," played the leading role in a sensational drama played the leading role in a sensational drains to a limited audience at the Hotel Cooper today. In the play of "Bismarck," his daughter enacts the character of Jennie the Innocent, and Miss Carlton, Nellie the Daisy.

Description of the Masher.

Mr. H. T. Jenkins is a tobacconist of Henderson, N. C. He is about five feet ten inches in height, compactly built, twenty-nine years old, has dark hair, eyes and mustache, and a brown complexion. He gives a broad and cong sound of the letter "a" in his talk, and long sound of the letter "a" in his talk, and might be taken for a star actor if he had not given a southern state as his place of nativity and his business as a tobacco dealer.

In any attempt to play the masher he evidently depends more upon his winning ways than upon his dress, which, while eminently e, is not flashy nor a counterpar of a dude cut. He put up at the hotel Cooper at 2 o'clock this morning, although it seems he had been in the city the previous day and was acquainted with the fact that Mr. Baker and his theatrical company were stoping at the hotel. It is apparent that he ad feasted his eyes upon the beautiful face of Mr. Baker's daughter, Vivia, and her lovely companion, Miss Carleton, and desired a betacquaintance. Jenkins was assigned to 69 on the second floor, while the young dies occupied room 92 on the fourth floor.

That Startling Message.

At 6 o'clock this morning the young ladies were swakened by a rap at the door by a bell boy, who said that a gentleman in No. 69 desired the young ladies to call at his room. The were startled at the message, and informed the bell boy that they did not know the gentleman in No. 69, and had no business with him. The door closed and the boy re-tired to No. 69. A few moments later the boy again put in an appearance at No. 92 and re-pested his message, with the added informa-tion that the gentleman said that he had met the ladies at Toledo and desired to renew the acquaintance. By this time the young ladies were thoroughly frightened and slammed and bolted the door. Later in the morning they informed Mr. and Mrs. Baker of the oc surrence. Mr. Baker then began inquiries, and when he asked Mr. Jenkins if he were the occupant of room 69, the latter said that he was not, and suddenly disappeared from the scene. He again put in an appearance at ner, his identity being established in the antime by Mr. Baker. Mashing the Masher

The latter waited until Jenkins had dined, when he invited the masher into the reading was full of explanation, and said that his conduct was prompted by the statement of a bell-boy that loose characters were occupants of room 92. Mr. Baker wanted Jenkins to identify the bellboy. Thus pressed Jenkins recanted his first statement and said that a street boy had furnished the information. At re Mrs. Baker, who had also been on the lookout for the occupant of room 69, also put in an appearance. She was flushed and greatly angered. Baker shaking his fist under Jenkins's nose, and repeating the statement made by Jenkins, said: "You are a liar and a scoundrel. One of the young ladies is my daughter, the other her compan-ion."

Mrs. Baker Takes a Hand. en Baker shot out his right and caught Jenkins on the nose. At this moment Mrs. Baker joined in, and her gold-headed umbrella began to descend with frightful rapidity Blinded with rage and in her excitement she did not at all times hit the mark, her husband ng the benefit of a number of blows in ended for Jenkins. By this time the con nts were near a large plate-glass window, which fronts the street from the office and exwhich from the floor to the ceiling. With a swinging blow Baker landed on Jenkins's neck, when the entire anatomy of the gentleman from North Carolina went crashing ough the window, and stretched at full the of the sidewalk. The fearful din of the on the sidewalk. The learned on oring glass and the attendant extended the opportunity Jenkins to get away. An er collared him, however, about a square ant, and on complaint of the hotel prostor sent him to the station house on a state of the station and medicine. rge of disturbing the peace and malicious charge of disturbing the peace and malicious destruction of property. He registered there as a merchant of Henderson, N. C., and twenty-nine years old. His effects consisted of $24 in money and some papers pertaining to his business. THE NEW YORK MARKET.

Exchange.

NEW YORK, September 21.—The stock market opened the new week this morning with another burst of activity, which bid fair for some time to eclipse the record of last Friday, but the trading in the afternoon fell away materially, and, while the sales of the day fell away materially, and, while the sales of the day were extraordinarily heavy, they were within the sum of the other day. The feature of the dealings today was unusually even in the distribution of business. The upward movement also made steady progress and this, notwithstanding the continued efforts of the operators who have been left out in the cold on the present rise to force reaction, by which they may either recuperate short contracts at something like a nominal loss or get in on the next advance at figures likely to net them a profit within a reasonable time. There was likewise a continued heavy realisation of the profits accrued by the bulls, who are satisfied with the advance as it is and also by foreigners who were rendered uneasy by and also by foreigners who were rendered uneasy by the continued withdrawals of gold for export to this port from the Bank of England, with a constant ten-dency of the money at center to become dearer. The demand, however, which was almost entirely from on the rise, the western stocks were almost all sluggish, while most of the specialties were still very strong, and among the active stocks Villards led the advance with some of their old time vim. Vanderbilts were also conspleuous for their strength, and Lake Shore was one of the few stocks which succeeded id scoring material final gain. Atchison, Reading, St. Paul and other late unusually prominent stocks for activity were still leaders in the dealings, but the totals of their transactions did not foot up such high figures as of late, while the business done was more than usual among low-priced shares. The upward movement, with frequent halts and much excitement, made steady progress until the last hour, when realisations became more numerous and became sufficient to overbalance the demand, and heavy as it still remained, prices therefore receded factionally, but several stocks, including Burlington and Rock Island, were thereby brought below a level of their opening figures. The market finally closed active and steady after the decline had halted. The list is almost invariably fractionally higher, but North American is up 1%, Northern Pacific preferred and Tennessee Coal each 1½, Sugar 1½ and Lake Shore, Lead Trust, Union Pacific and Wheeling and Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred each 1 per cent. NEW YORK, September 21.—The bull sentiment was worked up over Sunday in consequence of the strong closing of our market on Saturday, produced a bullish feeling at the opening, and the commission houses were all loaded up with buying orders. The principal selling in today's market was for London account, and it is thought that between 30,000 and 40,000 shares were sold from that direction. The market had a very strong undertone until almost 1:30, when the effects of large London selling was beginning to tell and the tenders saw an opportunity to scalp the fractions on the bear side and attacked values to a small extent. Tomorrow's market will depend a great deal upon what London does. We think if they sell like they did today it will prove powerful enough to bring about a reaction, but without any London selling, we hardly see how the present bull movement can be retarded.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, September 21.—Wheat surprised trade this morning by opening about 1½@2c higher than it closed Saturday, showing much strength for the time, and quickly selling at 2½c advance. The strength was due to Liverpool cables, which quoted that market 1 penny higher one spot and 2 pence higher on futures, consuls were quoted about 2-16c lower, and this, taken consuls were quoted about 2-16c lower, and this, taken in connection with the reported destitution in parts of Germany, and an estimate by The American Agriculturalist that the world's supply of wheat and rye would not be less than 200,000,000 bushels short, and might reach 400,000,000, even granting an export surplus of 225,000,000 bushels for the United States and Canada, made traders nervous and bullishly inclined. New York and other domestic markets started strong and at a good advance, and added to the local strength. Pardridge was understood to be covering a liberal Pardridge was understood to be covering a liberal line, and smaller shorts were also struggling to get in, but there was very little for sale, and business was consequently not as active as the decided advance would indicate. December started at 100%[010%] touched 101%; then on liberal selling by New York and St. Louis, together with lower cables from the United Kingdom and the reported break of 6 marks at Berlin, there was a drop to 100%, but another buying spirit carried it to 100%. There was a slight recession toward noon, but a firmness was prevailing during the oward noon, but a firmness was prevailing during the loward noon, out a firmness was prevaining during the last hour, with fluctuations between 100% and 100%, with a close at 100%. The board of trade's closing cable quoted Berlin 5½ marks lower, with London unchanged and Paris unchanged to a fraction lower. The report of wet weather in England damaging wheat in the field was one reason for the strength displaced by the market.

Corn was fairly active and strong early, in sympathy with the strength in wheat, but there was vigorous selling on the advance, resulting in a sharp decline. The market presented no important features. October sold early from 50½ to 51½, against 50% at the close Saturday. Then it began to break, and sold to 50¢, up to 50% then off to 40% reacted to 50½ and in the to 50%, then off to 40%, reacted to 50%, and in the afternoon rallied to 51%, breke to 50%, but rallied and afternoon rallied to 51%c, broke to 50%, but rallied and closed at 51%.

Gate were quiet and steady, closing within %c of the bottom with fluctuations confined to a range of %6%c Provisions were strong on a recession in prices of British consols, as indicating some nervousness over the European situation and the advance in the price of cereals. Later the market fluctuated frequently. The fluctuations in pork being confined to a range of 7% 600c with the close of an advance of 13% of Saturday's close.

CHICAGO, September 21.—Wheat opened with a considerable advance and owing to the strong Liverpool cables; the strength was said to be caused by bad weather. This market kept quite strong for awhile and the offerings were quite light. Later New York sent free selling orders and claimed the early strength at Liverpool, Berlin and Paris, giving weak and lower markets. A period of weakness set in at this point, from which the market recovered and ruled fairly strong until the close, but did not get strong enough to get above the range of calls and closed firm. Trading was not on a very animated scale, and all things considered, the market held its advance fairly well and the purchase of soft spots would seem to be in order.

Corn was rather quiet and there was but little doing in the September option, only an occasional trade. October and the future months were quite active and some large lines of October wern covered. A large amount of corn was contracted for lake shipment here and some will soon be taken at the seaboard for ex-

Cumberland island. The summer is past and the outing season is over, yet how many pleasant recollections are

At Cumberland! For many summers it has been the favorite esort of Atlantians, and they have gone there in droves.

It was so nice; so quiet, so pleasant to be there. There was a kind of isolation from the world, and from the madding crowd that rushes with feverish haste after the sordid hings of this life, that gave the place a charm to the tired and weary mortal.

To lie upon the sand, hard by old ocean, flat on your back, and listen to the murmuring of the sad sea waves, is bliss indeed.

To gambol in the surf, and frolic among the breakers is still rarer bliss.

To sit in the cool shade of the wide spreading beech trees, and hold to a rod forty feet long or more, which is ever and anon moved by the bite of a joyous horsefish, is all that a member of the Atlanta Fishing Club could desire. To lie idly back in your boat while it drifts lazily over the placid waters, and whisper stories of undying love into the ear of the summer girl beside you, this—this is paradise. To wander through the solitude of the island, when the world's asleep, and the pale moon is shining through the lichen-covered water oaks and beech trees, and the troubled sea waves in the distance are whispering their secrets to the friendly beach, is the poet's dream. To go at eventide, down where the waters beat and plash upon the shore, just as the sun's last crimson glow paints the treetops with gold, and look out over the wild waste of waters, and see nothing but the rippling of the waves, and beyond that only water, until the sky meets the sea, and there the glorious sun seems sinking into the waters, is the Bohemian's joy. the Bohemian's joy.

Many other joys could be enumerated as belonging to this rare island, but the bare mention of these will cause the memory of many similar experiences to come flocking to the similar experiences to come flocking to the minds of many.

All summer Cumberland hotel has been packed and jammed with guests, but it is not so now. The leaden tint of the clouds, the chilliness in the air, the yellowing of the leaves, have warned all visitors that the autumn is at hand, and the opening of the fall's business has called many a happy visitor leaves.

fall's business has called many a happy visitor home.

The season at Cumberland usually closes earlier than most of the resorts. The middle of August, or the 1st of September at the latest the season closes there. This year the great Cumberland hotel closed on August 22d. Notwithstanding this, many visitors, fishing parties and so forth have gone down to Cumberland quite recently.

It is the favorite resort of the tarpon fisher, or for that matter, the angler after any species of the finny tribe, and only a few days ago Mr. Charles N. Kight marshaled as formidable a host of professional fishermen as ever cast a hook, and took them down there.

And judging by the photographs they brought back they had a most successful trip. They aid not catch any tarpon, however.

While there Mr. Kight had his photographer to take about one hundred pictures of some of the artistic spots of the island. Some of them are real gems. He is going to have them made into a pamphlet advertising the island, which is reached by his popular route, you know.

The Cumberland hotel has, according to the which is reached by his popular route, you know.

The Cumberland hotel has, according to the owner's statement, paid a net earning of 10 per cent on the capital stock of $70,000.

This shows how well it has been patronized the past season. This, say the stockholders, should make the stock seil at a premium, the par value being $100.

The stock company which owns the hotel, known as the Cumberland Island company, own about one thousand acres of fine sea island land and about four miles of beach. All Georgia coast property is increasing rapidly in value, and the company have a good thing in this real estate on Cumberland.

Consumed By Fire—A Test.
Yesterday afternoon a test was given by Mr.
Thomas Poindexter of his great fire preventative, Ricinate. A large number of underwriters, merchants and manufacturers assembled at the corner of Boulevard and Highland avenue to witness the test, and all were more than satisfied with the workings of this new-found fire preventative.
The buildings that had been painted with Ricimate were proof against the fire, while the natural wood were consumed at once. One of the leading underwriters of the city said:
"I am sure buildings painted with this substance will be a great saving to all fire insurance companies. The risk will be greatly lessened. I

CHANGE OF TIME.

The article credited to The New York Press going the rounds of the papers, in which it is alleged that unfavorable action has been taken in the New York legislature against the Royal Baking Powder, proves to have been a canard, gotten up and circulated by opposition baking powder makers for purposes quite apparent to every one.

The New York Press, in exposing the fraud, says: "No such legislation as that stated in this article has ever been had in this state—or in any legislation, to our knowledge." The or in any legislation, to our knowledge." The lie is made from whole cloth. The Press disclaims any responsibility for the publication, and objects to being made a party to such methods adopted by some baking powder manufacturers their in efforts to substitute their goods for others now in use.

THE WORK BEGUN.

The Work on the Foundation of the Grady Monument Begins.

The place selected for the Grady monument, on Marietta street, presented an animated appearance all day yesterday.

Early in the morning Superintendent
Doyle, with four or five men, began the work of laying the granite foundation for the monument, and immediatly they were surrounded by a curious crowd. The crowd watched the operation of the high derrick as it lifted the heavy stone into the air and swung it into the place for which it was prepared.

As in the case of the building of Solomon's temple, every stone was numbered and fitted like a glove into its place.

The granite is of a superior quality, and came from the quarry at Constitution, on the East Tennessee road. The outside was smoothed off as even as marble, and as the huge pieces were swung into their place they presented a neat appearance.

presented a neat appearance.

The work progressed rapidly yesterday, and by tomorrow the foundation will be completed. The figure is expected to arrive by Savannah teamer on Saturday.
